Goal	Provide students a glimpse into the various avenues that can be pursued under the broad umbrella of "global health." The Flex Week will delve into global health efforts in research, clinical care, non-profit outreach, advocacy, and policy. Students will learn how global health efforts benefit other communities as well as our own. Ultimately, the flex week will allow students to envision what a career in medicine and global health can look like for them based on their varying levels of interest.
Brief Description	Students will participate in a variety of workshops including a panel with Pitt Global Health faculty performing research abroad or cross-cultural research, and discussions with NGO's with a sustainable global impact. These events will be followed by discussions between students to facilitate conversation about how we as a community can better our global impact and use our global knowledge to better our own healthcare system.
