

January Flex Week One Day Event

Monday, January 29: Pollinator and Native Plant Workshop: 10am-12pm in Alan Magee Scaife Hall. This experience will start with a discussion on the relationships between pollinators and native plant communities. Participants will build upcycled germination jugs and plant native seeds. The plants will be used by Pitt's Pollinator Habitat Committee as a giveaway during Pollinator Week in June (students are welcome to help out this summer or join the committee). Supplies provided by the Office of Medical Sustainability. This week fits nicely with the Environmental Impact of Healthcare Flex Week.
